WASHINGTON, March 1.—(By the Associated Press)—Louis Fichandler, of New York, reported to police that he had been robbed of $62,000 while sleeping on a train from New York between midnight and 7:00 a. m. He said the money was taken from under his pillow.

The packet contained fifty-seven $1000 bills and ten $500 bills.

Picturesque Member Of Congress Succumbs

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(By the Associated Press)—Representative W. Bourke Cockran, Democrat, New York, died suddenly today.

Mr. Cockran, who celebrated his 64th birthday yesterday, became ill last night and died early today. He was on the floor of the house last night and made a speech in opposition to the pending farm credits bill.

Mr. Cockran's death, which occurred at 7:10 o'clock, came as an immediate result of a stroke of apoplexy, it was said at his home.

A native of Ireland, educated in France and the United States, and active for many years in the legal profession and in politics, Mr. Cockran was one of the picturesque forces in American public life.

In politics he was a wheel horse of Tammany Hall, whose battles he fought in New York and elsewhere on many occasions.

In recent years he had devoted much attention to the fight for Irish freedom, appearing before congressional committees and on the public platform prior to organization of the Free State to plead for American recognition of the Irish Republic. On these occasions his eloquence was at its best as he recounted from personal observation the privations of the people of Ireland from which he sprung.

Mr. Cockran first was elected to the house for a term in 1888. He came back in 1891 for two more terms, but in 1896 he declined to follow the free silver banner of William Jennings Bryan, broke with his national party and left congress. He returned to the party in 1900 when he campaigned for Bryan and in 1904 he was again elected to the house, where he remained for five years. In 1920 he was again elected to a seat in the house. He was re-elected last November.

He had been especially active during the present session of congress and had planned a trip to Europe this summer. Until a few days ago he apparently had been in perfect health.

LOS ANGELES, CALIF., March 1.—(By the Associated Press)—Charles Chaplin, comedian, is "too poor" to marry Pola Negri, film tragedienne, "just now," the Los Angeles Examiner quoted him today as saying. The Examiner anticipated that midsummer was likely to be settled upon by the couple, whose engagement recently was officially announced at Delmonico, Calif.

"I am too poor to get married just now," said Chaplin. "This is a working world and we've all got to stay busy and keep away from climates of sentiment."

Figures In Dry League Investigation

F.E. Cartwright

W.H. Anderson

William H. Anderson, New York, State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, is the central figure in two important investigations. One is being made by the District Attorney, in New York City, into charges that Anderson forced fund solicitors to "split" their commissions with him. The other is an Albany investigation into charges that the Anti-Saloon League is a political body and should, therefore, be compelled to make public accounting of its receipts and expenditures, about which there has been so much secrecy. The Rockefeller, who formerly practically supported the League, have withdrawn financial support from it and have demanded that Anderson make a complete accounting. Frank E. Cartwright, of Corning, New York, brought about the second investigation, through his attorney, Colonel Ransom Gillette, World War hero, charging that he was beaten for the Assembly by the influence of the League. Ex-State Senator Drackett is Anderson's attorney.

New's Appointment Opens Political Scrap

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright 1923 By
The Portsmouth Times)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—Damon and Pythias never were closer friends than President Harding and the new postmaster general, Harry S. New of Indiana. That tells to some extent why the appointment was made, but not altogether. There's a political significance in the cabinet shift, which is inescapable.

It means the beginning of a fight on the part of the Harding administration to recover for the regular Republican National organization control of those states which they lost in the primaries last year. It means a determined effort to place in the hands of the regular organization the control of the next Republican National convention which, of course, signifies the nomination of President Harding if he cares to run.

Within the last three weeks Mr. Harding has let his position become known. In fact, among others a Senator from Indiana, James Watson, was the recipient of President Harding's views. "The importance of this may be realized when it is recalled that Senator Watson has been lined up with former Senator Beveridge in Indiana's factional fight and that Harry New's defeat in the Republican primaries was interpreted at the time as a rebuke to the Harding administration. Not the best of feelings has prevailed since the Indiana primaries, it being contended by some of the Beveridge people that Mr. New didn't go out and stump for Beveridge after the latter had won the regular Republican nomination for the United States Senate. No one knows, of course, how many Republicans who voted against Beveridge in the primaries turned around and helped Senator Ralston, Democrat, win the final victory in November but it is generally conceded that if Harry New had not been elevated to a post in the cabinet of the president his opportunities to recover lost ground in Indiana politics would have been nil.

Mr. Harding, if he is to be a candidate in 1924, needs the support of Indiana Republicans. Former Senator

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(By the Associated Press)—The farm credits bill proposing to establish two new building systems, one government and the other private, to meet the financial needs of the agriculture industry, was passed today by the house. It now goes to conference.

The vote was 305 to 56, chief opposition being registered by members from New York and the New England states.

Two bills on this subject have been passed by the senate and one bill must now be agreed upon by the two houses in conference. The main features of the measure are:

It sets up 12 intermediate farm credit banks with a capital of $5,000,000 as provided for in the Leonard Anderson bill.

It provides for the creation of private corporations with a capital of $250,000 each to finance large livestock producers with long term credit and provided in the Capper bill.

It embodies the provisions in the strong bill, liberalizing the terms of the farm loan act so as to extend larger loans to farmers on land mortgages.

HARVEY'S TALK RILES BRITISH

LONDON, March 1.—(By the Associated Press)—Ambassador Harvey's speech of last night in which he discussed the underlying causes and the nature of Great Britain's debts to the United States, evoked expressions of displeasure in British official circles today and gives indication of causing some discussion.

The foreign office declined to comment on the address, but it is reliably stated that Ambassador Harvey's remarks, particularly when, as the case was put, he challenged the British government to issue a statement refuting the Balfour note of last August, were considered to be unusual for a foreign envoy.

LONDON, March 1.—(By the Associated Press)—Ambassador Harvey's assertion that Great Britain had not been asked to guarantee and never did guarantee "the payment of a single dollar loaned by the United States for the use of any country other than Great Britain herself" stood out today as one of the noteworthy utterances of his address at the Pilgrims' Dinner last evening.

Colonel Harvey quoted from the Balfour note of last August the phrase:

"Under the agreement arrived at the United States insisted, in substance if not in form, that though our allies were to spend the money it was only on our security that they were prepared to lend it."

The ambassador said he did not doubt but that the British government would "with equal formality and no less explicitness remove the misapprehension created by this unfortunate allusion."

The dinner was given in honor of Stanley Baldwin, chancellor of the exchequer, who headed the recent financial mission to Washington.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(By the Associated Press)—Twelve United States army aviators who were to have started a flight from here today to San Juan, Porto Rico, put in their time thinking about their six huge DeHavilland 4-13 airplanes and hoping that a change of weather would permit them to get away Saturday. A wet flying field prohibited the heavy planes from taking off.

Only an accident or adverse weather conditions would cause further postponement, said Captain Thomas C. Lamphier, flight commander.

Tells Of Six Killed On U. S. Destroyer Of Broker To Jury

NEW YORK, March 1.—(By the Associated Press)—Conscious that the jury's verdict may depend upon what she says before it, Mrs. Paulette Saludes was preparing to undergo a grueling cross examination today in the state's attempt to break down the story she told yesterday of her killing of Oscar Martelliere, a broker, in his office last October.

Her impassiveness was broken yesterday as she pictured to the jury her mental distress at the deed she said that Martelliere practiced upon her, weaning her from her husband and stealing from both their small property.

The unfolded to the jury a story of perfidy and betrayal, of love and hate, of her attempt at suicide when she discovered her predicament—then the climax of the tragedy, the shooting of Martelliere, she said she remembered nothing. She did recall, however, the details of the final denouement.

Before the murder she went to Martelliere's office and reproached him for what she said were lies about her husband's theft of her property, imposition upon her affections and unfaithfulness in his expressed devotion to her. Mrs. Saludes said Martelliere testily told her he would return the money he took on the mortgage of her home, where he lived with her, and the proceeds of the sale of her automobile.

"I asked: 'What about me?'" Mrs. Saludes testified.

"You can't let me go down into the street."

"He said: 'What do I care?' He went out and slammed the door."

She broke down upon telling this. "He was untrue from the very beginning and he was working me like a business proposition—like he took his wife, like he took every other woman—and I found the revolver in his front drawer and I had only an idea to kill myself. I did not want to live any more."

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(By the Associated Press)—The minister of Finland, Dr. Axel Leonard Astrom, today made an appointment with Secretary Mellon for tomorrow to begin preliminary conversations on the refunding of the Finnish government's debt to the United States, amounting to $6,281,926 in principal and about $1,150,000 in accrued and unpaid interest.

Calder Brands Senators Cowards

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(By the Associated Press)—The vote of United States senators are controlled by fear of political consequences, Senator Calder, New York, Republican, declared today in one of the most remarkable swan songs heard in the senate in recent years.

Calder, who retires to private life next Sunday in delivering his farewell, severely arraigned the senate for its lack of courage in dealing with great public questions.

"The trouble, here," he said, "is that we have been afraid to tell the truth. We have been afraid to act on the truth. We are fearful of every move we make and every vote we cast. A re-elected senator recently said to me that he had made it a practice never to vote against a bill which a considerable group of his people favored. We were talking of the Esch-Cummings bill, the soldier bonus and the prohibition law. Calder roundly condemned the formation of blocs in congress and pleaded for an end of sectionalism in legislation."

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(By the Associated Press)—Congress "bloss" and agitation for government operation of railroads were deplored by Senator Calder, Republican, New York, in "a swan song" address today in the senate, reviewing his eighteen years of congressional service which ends March 1, following his defeat for reelection.

Declaring that American political life had not "kept pace with our great industrial development" Senator Calder declared that "government regulations and demagogic denigration, here and elsewhere, are slowly breaking down" the railroads.

"This great art of American industry," said Senator Calder, "of the utmost importance to all our national development, is gradually being paralyzed through governmental maladministration. It has become the sport of politicians to denounce the railroads."

Senator Calder said that it was time to tell the truth if the railroads were to be kept out of bankruptcy and added that senators were "fearful of every move that we make and every vote that we cast."

Dismissing the law movement, Senator Calder said:

"I should like to appeal here for the ending of all blocs or petty sectionalisms, for a better spirit, a more thorough understanding and a

Of Special Value After "Flu" or Other Serious Illness

The flu epidemic which has just swept over the country, while not so severe as the former outbreak, left behind it thousands of people in a weakened and run-down condition.

In just such conditions as these, Father John's Medicine has proven of greatest value.

You need a strengthening food tonic to rebuild your resisting power, and the pure food elements in Father John's Medicine are easily taken up even by a weakened system and made into new strength and flesh.

Building Strength After Any Illness

During the "getting-well" stage of influenza, pneumonia and other illness, the body, weakened by the disease, is wide open to the attacks of other germs, and this is the period of great danger.

At this time, all of the organs of the body must be kept in their best working order, not only to drive out the poison left in the system by the disease, but in order that the patient shall regain strength as soon as possible to avoid further attacks.

As a means toward good health after any illness, Father John's Medicine has proven its value by more than 67 years of success. Father

I Set Out to Find the Secret of Iron Muscles Like These

And Found That a Slight Change in Your Daily Meals Will Often Astonishingly Increase Your Strength, Energy, Endurance and Physical and Mental Power

Years ago, I made up my mind that there must be some vital secret that explained the great difference between the muscular strength, health and power of strong and weak people you meet every day. One man has muscles like iron, is full of strength and energy and hits hard both mentally and physically. Another is weak, anemic and run-down. His day's work leaves him tired out and exhausted and he is always ailing, complaining and doctoring, without ever seeming to get any better.

For years I made a special study of these conditions consulting a great number of physicians and chemists. Science has now proved that your real strength, energy and endurance—that mysterious force that enables you to dominate and control others and win in every walk of life, all depend upon the strength and nature of the millions of cells that compose your body and brain, and the physical strength of these cells depends absolutely upon the food you eat—that is, the material which they are built, just like a house that is built of bricks and is not so strong as one built of steel and iron. The most important element in building strong, powerful cells is a peculiar form of iron found in the human body, and it is this iron that makes the difference between a weak and a strong man.

Modern methods of cooking throw these important things away so that today probably not one person in twenty has 100% iron in his body—a most alarming condition. If you are anxious to build up your strength and body power, you should at once try mixing a little of this peculiar form of iron with your daily food, to help build strong iron-like cells. Surprising results have been obtained in many cases in two weeks' time. In fact, a former medical inspector and clinical physician of the Board of Health of New York City said to me: "There are countless numbers of men today who at forty are broken in health and steadily going downward to physical and mental decay. Yet there are thousands of the same men who undergo a wonderful transformation the moment they get plenty of iron into their blood." This new form of iron is comparatively inexpensive and may be obtained from your druggist under the name of Nutrilized Iron. Do not make a mistake and get one of the cheap iron salts which are sold everywhere. Nutrilized Iron is a totally different thing. Many professional men know the secret of great strength and endurance which comes from having plenty of iron in your blood. It would seem that the average man would realize how much more important it is for him to build up

Thief Visits Jackson Home; Valuable Jewelry Is Stolen

(Special to The Times.)

JACKSON, March 1.—Another of Jackson's homes was entered by a sneak thief Tuesday evening, when some one forced an entrance into the home of C. O. Brown, on Broadway street, and stole two valuable diamond rings and a pearl and a diamond locket belonging to Miss Dorothy Eldridge, his niece. Mr. Brown was out of town and Miss Eldridge had gone out to supper and to a picture show with some friends. Returning home about ten o'clock she discovered the loss of the jewels. While two upper bedrooms bore evidence of the search of the thief for valuables, nothing else has been missed and the lower rooms had not been disturbed.

Seek New Freight Rate From Jackson

JACKSON, O., March 1.—The Star Purchaser, through their attorney D. H. Armstrong has instituted an interesting suit in common pleas court to attempt to correct an injustice in freight charges. The action is brought against James C. Davis, director of railroads of the United States.

In the petition they set forth that in 1918 a freight rate was made of $1.60 per ton for transporting coke from New Boston to Jackson. This, they allege, was unjust and discriminating. On March 31, 1919 a rate of $1.10 was promulgated and this they allege is a fair rate. Under the old schedule they received 67,804 tons of coke and their claim an unjust freight charge of $2,374.02, for which sum with interest they ask judgment.

Which Only Aggravate Constipation

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot grip. When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus secures regular bowel movements by Nature's own method—lubrication. Try it today.

Take Salts If Stomach Isn't Acting Right

Says Indigestion Results From an Excess of Hydrochloric Acid.

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or rather ferments the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that indigestion is caused by hyper-acidity meaning there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach much like garbage sours in a can, forming acid fumes and gases, which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest; we belch up gas; we cravate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brush or nausea. He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink it while it is effervescent, and furthermore, to continue this for a week. While relief often follows the first dose, it is important to help neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salt is used for many stomach disorders with excellent results.

THE KISS OF JUDAS

BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

Copyright, 1922, by E. Phillips Oppenheim

Arrgt. NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

SIR NORMAN GREYES, formerly of Scotland Yard, is devoting his time to tracking down an arch criminal known to him as MICHAEL SAYERS.

JANET SOALE, maid in Sayers' cottage, is in love with her master. She shoots down a police officer who tracks Michael to his abode. Sir Norman meets Sayers at the golf club where Sayers is known as Mr. Stanfield. Greyes becomes suspicious of the real identity of Stanfield.

After a three-months' vacation, Sir Norman meets Stanfield in a hotel lobby. At the same hotel, to humor an insurance company, Greyes has an interview with a South American widow regarding a policy of a hundred thousand pounds carried on her remarkable rape of pearls.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

Sir Norman continues: "He is a quiet, little man," my companion remarked once, as he glanced over toward us. "He reminds me of those impossible characters one reads about in magazines, who detect crime for the pleasure of it, and discover hidden treasures in absurd places."

"He is, as a matter of fact," I told her, "a retired city merchant with a passion for golf—at least, that is what the golf secretary at Woking told me."

The music was seductive, and presently we danced once or twice. In the ballroom, however, my companion showed signs of renewed nervousness. The fingers of one hand were nearly all the time straying around her neck, as though to assure herself that the necklace was still there. Presently she drew me away with an apologetic little laugh.

"I am quite mad," she confessed, "but I have a fit of nerves tonight. I am going upstairs early. Do you mind?"

"Of course not," I told her. "Let me see you to the lift."

"I am going to ask you to do more than that," she said as we crossed the hall. "I am going to ask you to come up to my sitting-room and escort my maid down to the office when she takes my necklace there. As a reward you can come back afterward if you will, and have a whisky and soda with me."

I rang for the lift, and we ascended together to the fourth floor. She handed me her key and I unlocked the door of her charming little salon. She pointed to the evening paper and an easy-chair.

"Please make yourself comfortable for five minutes," she begged, looking back from the threshold of the inner room. "I shall just let Annette help me out of my gown. Then I will give her the jewel-case and she shall call for you."

She nodded and disappeared. I stood for a moment looking after her. The door was closed softly. I heard her to call her maid in the farther apartment.

Those next few seconds seemed to beat themselves out in my brain, charged with a strange and almost amazing significance. I am convinced that I acted from impulse. There was nothing definite in my mind when from behind that closed door I conceived the sudden idea which prompted my action. I crossed the floor of the sitting-room and opened the door which led on to the corridor. There was no one in sight, and it seemed to me that fewer of the electric lights were lit than usual. I stood there, every nerve of my body riveted upon an attempt at dual listening. I listened for the return of Mrs. De Mendoza, and I listened for the opening of either of sound—just the clutch at my throat and the choking.

"Why did you not wait for me or go by the lift?" I demanded.

She looked a little puzzled. "I never go by the lift," she replied.

"Why not?"

"Fred, the second-floor valet, generally meets me on the floor below," she explained reluctantly, "and—" "I see," I interrupted. "But didn't your mistress tell you to wait and go down with me?"

The girl seemed surprised.

THE EMPTY JEWEL CASE TOLD ITS OWN STORY. THE MAID MOANED O HERSELF.

"My head is queer," she admitted, "and I can't remember much; but Madame said nothing to me except to tell me to hurry down."

THE silence of the corridor was suddenly broken. Mr. Stanfield reappeared, followed by a little army of servants and the manager.

"Send everyone away except two men whom you can trust," I begged the latter. "Mrs. De Mendoza's necklace has been stolen."

There was a murmur of consternation and excitement. The manager selected two of the servants and dismissed the rest. He posted one by the lift and one by the staircase.

"Do you think the thief has got away?" he asked.

"One cannot tell," I replied. "I want to know about these three rooms."

He glanced at the numbers.

"The farthest one is occupied by Mr. Stanfield," he announced. "The other two are empty."

"You are sure that this one," I asked, pointing to the door close to where we stood, is unoccupied?"

"Certainly," was the confident reply. "Take my keys and see for yourself."

I was on the point of doing so when Mrs. De Mendoza appeared. She was clad in a wonderful light blue wrapper, and the touch of excitement seemed to add to her beauty.

"My necklace!" she gasped. "Don't tell me that it is gone!"

"Madam," the manager began, "I regret to say—"

"What were you doing, then?" she cried, turning to me. "Do you mean to say that it was stolen while Annette was with you?"

"Annette was never with me," I replied. "She left her bedroom with the jewel-case, without coming near the sitting-room."

"Is this true, Annette?" her mistress demanded.

Returns From Funeral; Chats With Friends; Falls Dead

Suffering a heart attack while chatting with friends at the Penman restaurant on Eleventh street about six o'clock Wednesday evening, J. J. (Dad) Haywood, 55 years old, negro, suddenly pitched forward from the chair on which he was seated and expired within three minutes. A post mortem examination conducted by Coroner Virgil Fowler and Dr. O. D. Tatje, city health commissioner, disclosed that death was caused by a ruptured heart.

Haywood had been here for some time, coming here from his home in the south several months ago and he had been employed at the steel plant until a few weeks ago when he lost two fingers from his left hand in an accident. Since then he had been employed at the Penman restaurant while awaiting adjustment of his claim for state compensation. He had attended the funeral of Mrs. Leroy Johnson at Allen Chapel during the afternoon and appeared in his usual good health on returning to the restaurant.

The body was removed to the Daehler morgue where it will be held until Coroner Fowler can communicate with relatives who live in Alabama and in Maysville, Ky.

Rushdown, Ohio—Dear Dolly—Will you please publish again the remedy you had in the paper some time ago for asthma. I would like very much to have something that would give me relief. I don't pretend to know how to cure asthma, and I can't remember printing a sure cure for this disease. Asthma is so intimately connected with other diseases, or is so aggravated by them, that its cure is only possible when such derangements are removed. Dyspepsia, is one of them, and consequently all indigestible foods should be avoided. Some articles of food tend to cause asthma attacks, notably eggs. Suppers should be light, and if late omitted altogether; breakfast should be served early, and constitute the principal meal. Bronchitis and heart disease of course need special treatment. They do say that sleeping on a pillow made out of dry dried pawpaw leaves will give temporary relief. No fixed formula can always be depended upon; for a remedy which will benefit one case will often prove useless to another, and for that reason I would

Dear Dolly—I like a young lady just like, and she treats me just fine, but I am so foolish that I can't tell her I like her. I haven't got the nerve to do anything like that. We are the same age and I want some nice advice. Words fail me whenever I try to get up courage to tell her how much I love her.

Actions speak louder than words, so if you can't tell her how much you love her why not show her.

Dear Dolly—As I am going to have a birthday party on two small boys in March and their birthdays both come on the same day, (March 17) I am going to trim the rooms in green and white crepe paper and serve white cake, and would like to know what would be nice with it. The youngsters are small. What sort of games would be nice for them to play.

Children like ice cream and candy better than anything else you could give them. You could have shamrock or pipes as favors and have little green baskets filled with white or green mints. You can buy all kinds of St. Patrick novelties at the local stores for decorations and favors. If you have a piano or Victrola, you could also play appropriate Irish airs, and have them sing Irish songs. I don't know of any Irish games, but I think any kind of ring games would be all right.

Thief Visits Vaughters' Home On West Side

Like the skeleton key robber, who has been reaping a rich harvest in the city, the thief visited the Vaughters' home on Thursday night.

This became apparent Thursday when the police learned that the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Vaughters of Friendship had been visited by a thief last night, using a skeleton key to open the rear kitchen door.

The thief secured $31 in currency, which Mr. Vaughters had in a dresser drawer in his bed room. They also stole his new overcoat, hat and gold watch, but cast them aside after getting his money, they being found near the Vaughters' barn.

The robbery was discovered this morning when the kitchen door was found wide open. It having been unlocked some time during the night. The key was left in the lock and the thief pushed it out and then used his own key.

Neither Mr. nor Mrs. Vaughters heard any noise whatever during the night and it is possible that the robber used chloroform as they felt no collar upon rising this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Vaughters visited the city last night and returned home at 11:30, the robbery having been perpetrated early this morning.

Bishop May Decide On New School Site

Soul-Saving Trial At Allen Chapel

Much enthusiasm is being manifested in the great trial of Christ at Allen Chapel. Evangelist Harpster is for the defendant in a series of sermons which he will preach in the terms of which.

The trial began last night and the speaker dwelt on the subject of "Testimony" based upon St. John 3:33. He asked the sinners which should it be life in reception of Christ or death in rejection? After earnestly pleading with the sinners he advised the Christians that to save souls they must quit fishing with hook and line for pleasure. They must unite and form one great drag net, launch out in faith and

Blood Pressure

Down Five Degrees

Mrs. Charles Whitney of Troy Tells How To Quickly Reduce High Blood Pressure

"I have suffered from high blood pressure since last July with a pressure of 23. I would have given up if I had not found out about the new discovery for high blood pressure. I had tried everything and nothing helped. I was very nervous and often I would faint away. Finally, I became nervous and could not sleep at night.

"I heard of NORMA and decided to give it a trial and I'm certainly glad I did. Why you know the first day my pressure went down five degrees and I slept fine, getting a good night's rest. These dizzy spells have left and I haven't had a weak or fainting spell since the first few doses. To be rid of those headaches alone is worth a fortune for they were torturing. I can recommend NORMA highly to anyone suffering as I did." Mrs. Charles Whitney, Troy, N. Y., Feb. 24, 1923.

NORMA is the new discovery for high blood pressure that Fisher & Strickland is selling so much of these days. It was first prescribed by a Buffalo physician with remarkable results. All first-class druggists sell and guarantee it. — Advertisement.

Dr. Jackson Delivers Fine Address

Before a large congregation Dr. J. C. Jackson delivered a fine address in All Saints' church last night on "The Bible from a Modern standpoint." The subject was discussed, as all who know the speaker would have expected, in a reverent and scholarly manner. All present were unanimous in stating that they had been greatly helped towards a more intelligent grasp of Bible problems. One of the striking points made by the speaker was the well known fact that very often those who had most to say about the Bible knew least about the Book of Books. Of the many helpful Lenten services held in All Saints' church, this was by common consent one of the best.

"Uniform Ruler" Sends Tax Bill Back To Committee

COLUMBUS, O., March 1.—(By the Associated Press)—With the Taft taxation bill again consigned to the committee on taxation until some agreement can be reached with the "uniform ruler" as to what is to be done with their taxation program which includes an income tax, the house of representatives today was faced only by secondary measures for consideration.

In the senate, however, a fight was anticipated when an effort is expected to be made to reconsider the conspiracy bill of Senator Jenkins, of Lawrence county, which was passed yesterday with only two dissenting votes. A movement for reconsideration started last evening was said to have gained considerable headway among members. The bill would impose heavy fines and penitentiary sentences on two, or more persons conspiring to commit an offense. It was contended that prison terms may be meted out to persons who had conspired to commit only the most insignificant misdemeanor.

In the light on the Taft tax bill yesterday, "uniform rulers" were aided by the solid Democratic minority and succeeded in sending it back to the taxation committee by a vote of 71 to 50.

By unanimous action, the senate yesterday voted unanimous approval of President Harding's request of congress that the United States enter the international court of justice under the League of Nations.

The Ladies of Holy Redeemer church will give a rummage sale in the Eleventh street school building on Saturday, beginning at ten o'clock. All kinds of clothing, shoes, hats and other wearing apparel will be offered for sale at reasonable prices. ## Stone's Conversion Began At Theatre In Montana

BILLINGS, MONT., March 1.—(By the Associated Press)—The conversion of Fred A. Stone, comedian, really began in Billings, when he appeared at a theatre here February 13.

Stone had been thinking seriously over the matter of church affiliation while on his way here when his train was held up in South Dakota by a blizzard. When he arrived in Billings he sought a store where Bibles were sold and asked for the best version in stock.

County Commissioner Lou Chapple was in the store and overheard Stone's request. "Here's a spy pilot now," he said to Stone, looking on to the Rev. Robert Cameron, pastor of the Presbyterian church.

"He'll pick what you want," Stone and the pastor engaged in conversation and Stone took the minister into his confidence.

Long Way From Being Spring Day

March was ushered in today not with spring zephyrs, but as the proverbial lion, as the day was raw and chilly, despite the fact that Old Sol tried hard to

Reno Gets Distinct Shock

RENO, NEV., March 1.—(By the Associated Press)—Reno's divorce colony was gasping today at the discovery that two of its most recent additions, who had become quite prominent among the gayer set, were dry enforcement officers whose activities had brought about thirteen arrests and the closing of a number of places where, it had been whispered, those knowing the right word could obtain liquor.

One of the agents posed as a film company director and the other appeared in the role of "representative of the steel trust." They gained admission to the select set by convincing attorneys that they sought divorces from fictitious wives in order to wed equally fictitious women whose purported photographs and letters they displayed.

Both officers it is said became highly popular with the feminine contingent of the colony.

Capitalization Increased

The Bureau of Railway Economics has prepared a special report, comparing the increases in capitalization of the railroads with the increases in traffic, since 1909.

This report shows that for June 30, 1909, to December 31, 1921, a period of twelve and a half years, the total railway capitalization actually outstanding increased from $16,592,530,310 to $20,357,768,745, an increase of $3,765,238,435 or 19.8 per cent. Subsidized increase in stock outstanding was $1,225,855,917, or 17.4 per cent, and in funded debt $2,039,382,518, or 21.7 per cent.

In this same twelve-and-a-half-year period the revenue freight traffic increased from 215,803,000,000 ton-miles in the fiscal year 1909 to 309,433,000,000 ton-miles in 1921, an increase of 90,640,000,000 ton-miles, or 41 per cent.

The revenue passenger traffic for the fiscal year 1909 totaled 29,100,000,000 passenger miles and in 1921, 37,700,000,000 passenger miles, an increase of 8,600,000,000 passenger miles, or 29.5 per cent.

Says Man Or Woman Who Lies To Get Even Makes Two Liars; Tonight Is Men's Night

(BY ERNEST SCHUKT)
"Forgive and forget, that is the Christian and only way to win over the sin of revenge," was the theme written home by Dr. George Wood Anderson when he delivered another of his powerful sermons of the New Crusade campaign last night to a crowd of men, women and children numbering close to the 3000 mark. The attendance compared very favorably with that of Sunday night and only a few seats scattered here and there could be found empty. It was "Ladies Night" and the women attended in such large numbers that they set a mark the men will find hard to beat.

Dr. Anderson, who addressed a big meeting of church workers Wednesday in Columbus, arrived at the tabernacle just a few minutes before 7:30, the time he usually starts his sermon. He climbed the steps to the platform, laid aside his overcoat, and after a few brief remarks plunged into another of those straight-from-the-shoulder talks that contained much food for thought. The evangelist, spontaneous and genial and ready of speech, made deep impressions during his sermon long enough to drive home his point with a well illustrated story that the congregation could not help but grasp.

Dr. Anderson took for his subject last night the story of Ritzpah, and the Seven Sons Crucified, or of how seven sons of Saul were nailed to the cross in revenge and of a mother's love for her children. He took his text from the Old Testament, from Samuel 2: 21-30, it being the longest text he has used so far in this campaign. In order to give the congregation the background of his theme, it was necessary to use the entire passage of the Bible which is, "And Ritzpah, the daughter of Aiah took sackcloth, and spread it for her upon the rock, from the beginning of harvest until water dropped upon them out of heaven, and suffered neither the birds of the air to rest on the dead, nor the beasts of the field to eat of them; and she told the story of her son, King David, the Gibeonites, who were not children of Israel, would not take gold or silver of Saul, but demanded instead, the seven sons, whom they took and nailed to crosses, on a spirit of revenge, for the acts committed under the reign of Saul, the demand was granted and they were hanged in the field before the Lord; and they fell all seven together, and were put to death in the days of harvest. King David wanted to be friendly to the Gibeonites, but in order to keep peace was forced to grant their demand, although it was against his will to see the hanging of the seven sons, who paid the price for Saul. The long and patient watch kept over the bodies by Ritzpah followed, and from this story the evangelist brought forth the main facts, that the sins of the father are visited upon the children, that someone must pay for sin, and lastly "another love."

From this story the speaker framed other word pictures which carried the truths that revenge does not pay and that the person who seeks revenge is a sinner of the worst sort. He pointed out how the sinner may by chance escape the penalty of his own sin but that someone must always pay, and that should such be the case, the children even out to the third and fourth generations, must pay. Thus was the message, "The sins of the father shall be visited upon the children, even unto the third and fourth generations," brought with much force to the big congregation.

"Today we hear much about eugenics and it is often announced that the eugenic expert has found something new. How foolish this all is, for it is written in the Book of God that those things will be. It would be a mighty fine thing to get some of these so-called scientists to read God's Book understandingly," said the speaker, who added that, "things they think are new are truly revealed in God's word. Children have to suffer for the sins of the unpunished father or mother. Often we hear it said, he is a chip off the old block, but sometimes, yes, frequently, we find the chip better than the old block," said Dr. Anderson. He showed how crippled and weakened children are forced to suffer just because the parent had committed some unforgotten sin.

The evangelist then struck at those who entertain the spirit of revenge, saying, "There is no spirit on earth, so hellish, as the spirit of revenge, and the man or woman who is always trying to 'get even' is the one who usually suffers the most. In illustrating this point he said that the man or woman who lives to 'get even' with someone who has lied on them makes matters twice as bad by making two liars instead of one, and that the person who endeavors to get revenge on a thief by stealing doubles the sin by making two thieves. "There is no manhood, no nobility in revenge," said Dr. Anderson. "The only correct and right answer for revenge is forgive and then forget," said the speaker who illustrated the forgiving faith without the forgetting faith with a story of how two women kiss and make-up and then one says that it is all right but you will have to do so and so. "The person who forgives and forgets is kind and shoulders above the person who entertains the spirit of revenge," declared Rev. Anderson.

In bringing his story down to modern times, the evangelist said, "Lies are nails with which you nail the body of the person on whom you seek revenge, to the cross, and idle gossip is the hammer with which the nails are driven in. God is just and we cannot sin without paying for it in this world or in the next. God always answers prayers and in him you can find forgiveness from the spirit of revenge, a sin that stumbles not only you, but your children of coming generations. Mothers and fathers, for the sake of your children, drive out your sins before it is too late."

He also spoke direct to the women concerning indifference. He said that women will say they have no time for church work when it means so much to their boys and girls who hear them say such things. "Mother should always be true," said Dr. Anderson.

Wednesday afternoon there was a special meeting for high school girls, who attended in a body and who were addressed by Mrs. Anderson.

Tonight will be Men's Night and the men will meet at the First Baptist church at 6:45 o'clock and march to the tabernacle.

Sparks From The Anvil Of George Wood Anderson

God always answers prayer. See how "the sins of the fathers are visited upon the children."

We cannot commit sin without answering for it in this world or the next—God is just. Eugenics is not a new science. God told Moses about it three thousand years ago.

Money gotten dishonestly, turns into brimstone to damn the boys the minute the father dies.

The son pays for his father's drunkenness. There is no spirit so hellish as the spirit of revenge.

There is no manhood, nobility or courage in revenge. Revenge is the work of a sneak.

There is only one thing to do when you are wronged—FORGIVE.

If a man lies on you and you lie on him to "get even" we have two liars instead of one.

Lies are the nails, a gossiping tongue is the hammer that nails our boys and girls to the cross of shame.

Notice To Young People

The announcement was made today by Chairman Fred Hamilton of the Young People's Committee of the New Crusade, that all the young people of the co-operating churches will meet at the U. B. church at 6:30 Friday evening and go in a body to the tabernacle. "The young people having seen the representatives of the older organizations," said Mr. Hamilton "will be able to get an idea of what they will have to do in order to head the list."

For three years there had been famine in Israel. The sky had become a heated furnace, whose consuming flames had scorched the fields and dried the water brooks, bringing starvation to man and beast. King David sought divine intervention but no answer could be given his prayer until a wrong had been righted. When God converts a soul he forgives and forgets all that is past and the wrongs are made right with God; but God's pardon does not meet one's debt to his fellow man, and what is true of the individual is true of the nation. King Saul had sinned against the Gibeonites, and God, loving all men equally, had withdrawn himself from the chosen people until they were willing to make the wrong right. Immediately upon learning the cause of the nationwide suffering, King David sent messengers to the Gibeonites to inquire what could be done to remedy the sins of his predecessor. They were a crafty folk and gave an adroit answer, saying that they would exact no indemnity of money from the family of Saul or require no shedding of blood at the hands of the king.

David was pleased. If they would require no blood at his hands, nor crushing indemnity from the descendants of Saul, the matter could be easily adjusted, so he promised to give whatever they might ask. Instantly they demanded seven grown sons of the dead king. Choosing seven stalwart descendants of their first king the Israelites gave them as a propitiation for their sins. With great ceremony the unfortunate ones were led into the land of the Gibeonites and there where their fathers' crimes had been committed they nailed the seven men of royal birth to seven crosses and swung them to the air. For hours they hung upon the barren heights of the rock-bound cliff, suffering all the indignities that a mocking, revengeful multitude could heap upon them until the shadows lengthened and the Angel of Death, more merciful than man, relieved their sufferings. As the last one expired the multitude, pleased with their victory, started homeward, laughing and singing to spend the night in revel.

But the tragedy was not ended. The dead sons were not left alone. In the midst of the crowd was Ritzpah, the mother of two of the dead sons. She had followed them all the way from Jerusalem and had stood all day as close to the crosses as the crowds would permit, but now that the dead were deserted she rushed forward, spreading the sackcloth which she had been wearing in memory of her dead husband upon the rocks, she fell at the foot of the crosses to give expression to her grief. Her frail body shook in prayer. Suddenly she was startled by the roar of a wild beast. Looking up she saw, peering through the darkness, the fiery eyes of some beast of prey that had come to devour the bodies of the dead. In an instant she was at them, swinging the sackcloth to and fro to frighten them away. All night she fought back the beasts but the dawn of the day brought no relief. The light that drove the beasts to their lairs brought the vultures that soared in ever narrowing circles, seeking opportunity to light upon the bodies of her sons. Through the long, tedious hours of the day she stood alone with the dead, fighting the vultures. Thus for weary weeks Ritzpah, the mother of sorrow, stood at the crosses, for the law forbade their burial. There, upon the crosses, they must stand as things accursed until flesh decays, the muscles and tendons snap and the bones fall in a wild heap at the foot of the crosses.

From early May until late October rain began to fall she remained, keeping her solemn watch until her new became parched and withered, her eyes shone with desperate madness. Beholding her fighting the vultures by day, and seeing her by the light of her vigil fires, keeping at bay the ravens and the passing travelers would say, "Ritzpah is mad!"

But the king thought not so. The story of Ritzpah's suffering brought indignities of an aching heart which one of his own had been slain. He remembered how the Jews of life had faded as he walked the palace crying out "Oh, my son Absalom! My son, my son!" He understood the sorrows of the suffering mother and with the hands that wrung in anguish over Absalom, he wrote the order that the bones, made precious by a mother's devotion, should be taken from the crosses and buried in the sepulchre of the king.

Beholding the seven crosses and their suffering victims he saw how the iniquities of the fathers are visited upon their children. "The boys are crucified, not for their own but for their father's sins. Saul went to his grave with his wrongs to the Gibeonites unaccounted for, but long after he was dead and buried his sons paid the price."

Old As The Commandments
The scientists do well to emphasize the study of eugenics for much of the misery and suffering of the innocent can be prevented by following faithfully its clearly revealed laws; but think not that eugenics is a study that is going to supplant the truths of the gospel. The study of eugenics is as old as the Ten Commandments. The Bible is the oldest and best text book on eugenics ever written. "The sins of the fathers are visited upon the children to the third and fourth generations."

The world's history bears witness to the fact that what God said is true. One generation becomes rich by dishonest methods and the third generation following is poverty stricken. Money gotten dishonestly damns one's children. With prosperity comes a belief that money gives immunity for the consequences of sin and his children bear the burden of the father's guilt and shame. One generation violates the laws of purity and the next generation pays with a weakened body or blinded eyes, or a stunted brain. "Tonight I charge you in the name of God to beware of sin. The consequences of your misdeeds will not end when you die. You may reform. Jesus Christ may forgive and make the remainder of your life a real blessing, but that will not keep the results of your sins from being visited upon your children. That is why mothers should speak frankly to their daughters and warn them against marrying a young man who has ever been guilty of sinning his wild oats. For her own sake and the sake of her children marry no man to reform him. Young man, I command you in the name of God, and for the sake of those who some day may bear your name, keep yourself clean. The laws of heredity are irrevocable. They will continue to work long after you are dead. Your sins will not only curse you but damn your offspring. I wish I might point the

Says His Prescription

Has Powerful Influence Over Rheumatism

Mr. James H. Allen, of Rochester, N. Y., suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease rendered him helpless and unable to work. He finally decided, after years of needless suffering, that he would try Dr. King's New Discovery. He had heard much about it and was convinced that it would cure him. He bought a bottle and took it as directed. He was cured. He writes: "I am now well and able to do my work. I am a great believer in Dr. King's New Discovery. It has cured me of my rheumatism and I can recommend it to all who suffer from this disease."

With this story in mind he considered the disease, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that cured him and completely banished every trace of rheumatism from his system.

The doctor gave his discovery, which he called Rheumatism, to others who took it and cured them. He has cured many more since. After years of using his discovery, he has found that it is the best remedy for rheumatism. He has therefore, instructed his assistants to dispense it. He has also written a book that shows the way to complete recovery. It will show you how to cure your rheumatism. Advertisements.

Common Sense to Forgive
But you say: "Mr. Anderson, I have been wronged. My character was assailed, my good name ruined, my hope for the future is killed. What would you have me do?" There is only one thing in the world to do, and that is to forgive them. What else can a sensible person do. "Getting even" has never righted a wrong. Suppose you follow the world's method of revenge. They bid about you, now you lie about them. What is the result? Two liars in the world

Dr. Anderson Sure Shot Sin Hunter Knows No Limit, Says Sheridan

By F. W. SHERIDAN

With the precision of an expert needle worker ducking a square of purest Irish linen, Dr. George Wood Anderson picked up the threads of his wonderful discourse on "The Serpent Eggs" he had delivered on Tuesday when he read his text pertaining to "Ritzpah, Mother of Love" at the big garage on Wednesday evening and held his auditors spell bound with his matchless address on the "Seven Crosses of the Old Testament." His sermon on prayer meeting night was a continuation of his Tuesday night's oration, when he rained blow after blow upon those innocent little sins which he likened to the eggs of a serpent and which were warned into life and the hatching stage. When it comes to bombarding sin, the equal of Dr. Anderson has not been heard in these parts for many, many years. "He uses no pop-gun methods when he goes gunning. Like the true hunter he is, he has the necessary artillery to fill his game bag, and he knows no limit, nor is there any closed season with him. He doesn't wait to flush his game but will take advantage of a 'po' shot' in the hope of bagging every bird to the covey. He's after results, and while he has not thrown out the lifeline, he is trying to get those right who are professors of religion, believing it best to get the house in order before visitors are invited in as guests.

To that end, churchmen and churchwomen are having some of their frailties exposed—at least pointed out. Anderson is not vicious in his words, but he's pretty tolerably plain, as they used to say in the country preachers. You know when he hits, but you are in that frame of mind that you take chastisement like you used to when the school master caught you reading a Deadwood Dick novel that you imagined you had concealed so well behind that geography—the biggest book you thought in all the world. You had absolutely no defense, and you took your trimming without an unkind thought toward the teacher—and you loved her all the more for doing her duty. Well, Dr. Anderson has simply called up those old school days—and you may be getting yours—and you're going back to get some more. Fact of the matter is, you imagine it will do you a lot of good, and right now many church folk are taking an inventory of their lives, pruning blither and you, and within a short time will be all tuned up and ready for any eventuality—to charge with the courage of the light brigade when the word is spoken.

Everybody was happy, last night. The women, God bless 'em, were there in great numbers and the big garage, capable of seating 3500 people, was 98 per cent filled, and quite a large number of people did not enter the spacious building when they peeped in and saw the thousands. It looked to them as though the place was packed. A mighty shout went up when the women's delegations began arriving. A steady stream of mothers and sisters poured in that big drive-way. The section reserved was entirely inadequate to care for the delegations—how many men do need more faith. Dr. Anderson was all smiles when those women stood in solid phalanx—what a great bunch of crusaders—everyone as determined as any soldier that ever went forth to battle. Choir Director Walter Jenkins had everything in fine working order when Dr. Anderson arrived. The latter had spent a busy day in Columbus, where he spoke to more than 4000 people in the Board of Trade Auditorium. He was tired—dead tired when he reached the garage, and only had time to toss his big overcoat across a chair before jumping into the game. But the sight of that great audience warmed the cockles of his heart and he went at a dizzy clip all evening and was as fresh as a daisy at the close.

His tribute to motherhood—the paradise to all earthly climates—was the word picture of an ardent rare. His text gave him a back ground of which he took instant advantage. What a heritage to be a mother! Ritzpah is alive today—has always been! And always will live! Not a man who knows the love of a mother, but whose heart strings were all a flutter as he eloquently painted a picture of the dearest, sweetest woman in all the world—mother mine! Next to being a mother, the greatest thing is being a father—and how necessary for men to live lives their boys and girls will want to emulate—a clean cut men, honest men, whose children are given a strong, vigorous body, a well balanced mind and a chance to make good—because father was a true man! Read it again, fellows, it won't do you a bit of harm.

THE OBSERVATION S OF A REPORTER

Women gathering at church. Lots of them. All ages. Big and little. Marching with banners. There is something about a banner that makes a fellow want to march. Going into Tabernacle. Jenkins runs out of songs. Long lines of delegations. Women and bob-haired girls marching to seats.

There are fewer whiskers in the audience tonight. Every delegation is to have a verse of a favorite song.

picture for you of a little lad who once lived across the street from me. I wish you could see his wide-open eyes, his wistful look, his emaciated form, his twitching nerves, and the unvarnished longing of his soul to play and study with his companions, but who is handicapped by the sin of a parent. Men and women, for the sake of those who follow, give your hearts and lives to Christ, if for no other reason than that the sins of the fathers are visited upon their children.

The Spirit of Revenge
Look again on these seven crosses and their suffering victims and behold the folly and cruelty of revenge. For years the Gibeonites had smarted under their misfortune. They had been wronged and were only waiting an opportunity to avenge themselves. At last it came, and with the subtle, characteristic of those in whose hearts hold the spirit of revenge, they demanded the seven lads of royal blood, without a tear of sympathy for their lot from their parents, led them into a strange land, nailed them to crosses, crucified them, caring for neither the suffering victims or the agonizing Ritzpah. Returning home, they rejoiced, saying, "It is a long lane that has no turn. Yesterday Saul injured us. Today we are even." That night while Ritzpah fought back the wild beasts, they revealed and rejoiced, all the next day while Ritzpah fought back the vultures they filled their hours with song. There is nothing this side of hell so damnable as the spirit of revenge, that hides in its heart some grievance which it nurses into a full grown mania, to hate and murder and destroy. Revenge changes a man from frankness and sincerity into a smoldering wretch, who crouches in the shadows waiting for a chance to stab the object of his hatred. When one seeks for revenge he cares not for his victim's family, his children or his mother, but obsessed by one thought pushes forward, saying, "I must get even." Nothing can stop him. If the law is so severe, and he dare not kill his victim physically, he resorts to abuse and scandal in order to kill him morally. Slander rolls from his lips. He watches and waits until he has sufficient rumors and gossip with which to build a cross. Having completed the cross of suspicion, he stretches his victim upon it in full sight of the people, and with lies for nails and slanderer's tongue for hammer, he nails them tight and though blood flows and hearts break and innocent Ritzpah mourns, he holds his victim high above his head saying: "Ah, ha! I'm even." The devil, black with the soot of hell, is a white-winged angel compared with such a one. Beware how you permit the spirit to enter your heart.

The Power of Love
Look again at this scene of crucifixion and behold the power and beauty of love. The bodies of these lads were unseen to everyone save Ritzpah, for they were sacred. With no tent to shelter from the heat of noontide or drenching dew of night, with no cot save the hard rock covered with thin sackcloth, Ritzpah cared not for hardships or criticism. It was a ghastly place, but she was never afraid. She would have fought back a king's army as she fought the vultures had they tried to remove her. What kept her there? The golden cords of a mother's love and she would rather be with her dead than in the treasure-filled palace at Jerusalem.

O, the indescribable wonders of a mother's love! Come, police officers, and bear witness. You have gone into a hundred homes to place your hands upon the shoulder of a boy, and say, "Come with me." Did the mothers forsake their lads? Come, all judges and magistrates! In the hour of public trial did a mother ever forsake her boy? "O, no," comes the answer, "old friends would forsake and enemies revolt, but to the last moment the mother has remained with confidence, every word and expression of the face declaring 'my boy is innocent.'" Come all ye diseases, ye fevers with scorching breath, and diphtheria, with choking fingers, tell me when the house was quarantined and the neighbors fled, did the mother forsake?

A few years ago the mother of a famous New York gunman was informed of her son's disgrace only the day before his execution at Sing Sing. Hurrying to the prison and finding her boy dressed in black, instead of the customary prison garb, she realized everything and demanded, "When are they going to kill him?" When told that he must meet death on the morrow, she cried out: "To think you never told me, and my boy had to stand trial and sentence of death without his mother. That was the first time I would have my boy needed me. I'll never leave him now but will sleep tonight in this corridor and walk with him on the morrow to the chair." They had to tear her away from the iron bars to which she clung when it was time for her to leave.

The love of Ritzpah makes those seven crosses glorious because she was making battle to save the good name of her boys. The deed of the Gibeonites had made them unclean, but she knew that they were the sons of a king and should rest in the king's sepulchre, and she would never stop her efforts until they were redeemed. How many of us owe our good name and Christian character to the same source. Mothers, keep on with your vigils. Many of you have unanswered prayers, but God's heart, more tender than David's heart, will give the answer. Your child will be saved.

Church Needs Ritzpah's Spirit.
O, that the church of God might catch the spirit of Ritzpah and start out with desperate earnestness for the salvation of sin's victims. How it shames our levity, our carelessness and our criminal negligence. O, church of the Living God, let us drop all our differences and make the dearest and most ghastly place of sin and suffering glorious with our unflinching love.

I never see Ritzpah in her loring devotions that I do not wish she had lived during the days of Christ. I can see Him as He walked along the way, surrounded by expectant multitudes that listened eagerly to every word until He came in sight of the seven crosses and the faithful mother. He hears some one say: "Ritzpah is mad. Her grief has deformed her reason," as they would have seen Jesus pass by. But often in what the world calls madness Jesus sees heavenly wisdom and to him that lonely woman by the crosses was the most beautiful woman of the world, and I see him stop to better view the scene. He never could pass by that mountain. He must make it His temple. Ritzpah was not mad. That was a heart of love, in desperate earnestness calling to a heart of love that was just as desperately in earnest. It was the call of one who had left a palace to dwell in a strange country with men accursed, calling to one who too had left a palace to dwell in a sinful world. It was a longing to save, calling to one who came to seek and to save. It was human compassion calling to Infinite compassion. How wonderful! I see Jesus separating himself from the multitude, climbing the hill and comforting the heart-broken mother while he turns to the dead, saying: "I say unto thee come forth," and lo! the dead boys are brought to life.

O, had Ritzpah lived in the days of Christ as do you and I, for we have the assurance of answered prayers. "Thanks be to God who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ."

BRINGING UP FATHER

Mellon's Former Wife To Marry Art Dealer

NEW YORK, Mar. 1.—A marriage license was issued today to Harry Lee, 20 a New York art dealer, and Mrs. Nora Mary McMullen Mellon, 44, divorced wife of Andrew W. Mellon, of Pittsburgh, Secretary of the Treasury.

Mrs. Mellon could not be reached at her apartment, 340 Park Avenue, but servants said they had been informed the marriage would not take place until after this week.

The Mellon divorce proceedings became an international question, following their separation in 1909, and was brought before parliament in England on several occasions. Mr. Mellon obtained a divorce in Pittsburgh in 1912. They were married in 1900.

Appealed To Royalty.

Mrs. Mellon, before her marriage was Nora Mary McMullen, daughter of one of the founders of the Guinness Brewing Company of Dublin, Ireland. When Mr. Mellon instituted divorce proceedings against her, she appealed to King George and Parliament, alleging that she had been deprived of her rights as a British citizen. She accused her husband of violating an agreement not to divorce her, made in 1909, under which she received a trust fund of $1,350,000 and $350,000 for their two children.

Mr. Mellon brought the suit on grounds of infidelity, naming Alfred George Currier, an Englishman as co-respondent. Currier and Captain T. W. Kirkbride of the British army were arrested in New York in 1911, charged with ignoring subpoenas to appear at the divorce hearing at Pittsburgh, but were released after being held for several months in $2,500 bail.

Intervention Refused.

The appeals of Mrs. Mellon for intervention by the British government were denied by Sir Edward Grey, then Secretary of Foreign Affairs. He held that she had forfeited her British citizenship when she married Mr. Mellon and her citizenship had not been restored despite her two years residence in England and France after the separation.

Mrs. Mellon returned to the United States in the spring of 1911 and was ejected from the Mellon home in Pittsburgh on Court orders obtained by Mr. Mellon. The children were given into his custody. Her wedding presents and household belongings also were seized.

Hearing Held In Secret.

The divorce hearing was held secretly at Pittsburgh in July 1912, when a special commission, that had taken testimony in England, France and cities of the United States filed their report. By an agreement the divorce was granted to Mr. Mellon on grounds of desertion. A report during the summer of 1913 that they had become reconciled in Europe was denied by Mr. Mellon.

Kellogg's Bran is Guaranteed to give relief BECAUSE IT IS ALL BRAN!

Relief from constipation, whether it be mild or chronic, will follow the regular, every-day eating of Kellogg's Bran. We have thousands of letters from former sufferers who tell us that the natural "bulk-action" of this wonderful cereal product has given relief they have not known for years. We guarantee that Kellogg's Bran will free the system from constipation because it is ALL BRAN—not a composition in which bran is added. If constipation is to be permanently relieved, you must eat ALL BRAN—that's why your physician will recommend Kellogg's for constipation.

Constipation creates toxic conditions which poison the blood and every organ of the body. It slows you down mentally and physically, and creates sick headaches, nausea, bad breath, pimples—finally, in many cases, leading to Bright's disease, diabetes and other dreaded illnesses. You must fight constipation with Kellogg's Bran regularly if you want health!

You'll say Kellogg's Bran is really delicious—it has a nut-like flavor that appeals to the most fastidious appetite. Eat it as a cereal, sprinkled on hot or cold cereals or cooked with hot cereals, allowing two tablespoonsful of bran for each person. Be certain to eat at least two tablespoonsful each day, as much with each meal in chronic cases. Kellogg's is delicious made into muffins, macaroons, raisin bread, griddle cakes. Recipes in every package. Kellogg's Bran is served by leading hotels, clubs and restaurants in individual packages. It is sold by all grocers.

"The Storm" Is Raging At The Sun

At the Sun Theater this week there is raging one of the most realistic storms ever put on record. It is the play "The Storm," by Langdon McCormick, which has been a country-wide success. The manner in which the Jack Ball Stock Co. is staging this spectacular and realistic production is marvelous to behold. Every electrical effect used in the original production is there and under the personal supervision of Frank Hawkins, there is some "realistic stuff" in the way of a forest fire presented before your eyes. The story of the play itself is indeed quite as interesting and absorbing as any drama the players have done and with the big effects it outdoes any previous efforts of the stock management in the way of real $3.00 amusement at prices within the reach of everyone. Next Monday night brings to Portsmouth another bright and laughable farce comedy, "Not Tonight, Dearie," which at the present time is being played all over the country as a brand new release for stock managements are quick to realize the value of this dashing farce and the way it sends patrons away from the theater with the "smile that won't come off" is really remarkable. It is classed on a par with other comedies, such as "Up In Mabel's Room," "Please Get Married," etc. It makes the fat get thin, and the thin grow fat from laughter. Seats are now selling a week in advance.

SEEK EXEMPTION FROM FIRE-DAMAGE TO RIVER BOATS

CINCINNATI, O., Mar. 1.—A petition in admiralty was filed in United States District Court here today by the Coney Island Company asking the court to hold that it is not liable to any extent for damages caused to other vessels when fire destroyed the company's steamer Morning Star last November.

The petition, which was filed by Charles G. Brooks, president, asks that in event the court should find the company liable that its liability be confined to the company's interests in the steamer and its freight at the time of the fire.

More than $56,000 worth of claims are now pending in the courts, the petition states.

No Need to Fear Baldness

Tells How to Make Hair Grow Strong Thick and Lustrous

Thousands of men and women are growing baldness every day. This is needless because baldness usually comes from neglect and anyone who gives the scalp a little attention about once a week will have an abundance of good-looking healthy hair. Dandruff and dirt cause baldness by clogging the pores in the scalp and giving the dandruff germs fertile ground for prolific breeding. The treatment is very simple; remove the dirt by shampooing and destroy the dandruff germs by applying the genuine Parisian Sage, a most efficient antiseptic liquid that destroys everywhere, as you recommend, as one of the quickest and safest treatments to surely stop itching scalp and falling hair, remove all dandruff and to properly nourish and invigorate the hair roots. Parisian Sage is in great demand by discriminating women because it is daintily perfumed, does not color or streak the hair and gives it a softness and luster that fascinate and compel admiration. —Advertisement

BOSTON, March 1.—Golf for ball-players is looked upon with disfavor by Manager Frank Chance, of the Red Sox. He declared today that the game would be barred to the Sox at their Hot Springs training camp as well as during the season.

"Golf takes too much out of the players, and there will be enough work laid out for them on the diamond to keep them busy," he said.

Queer Things In New York Fight Game

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor.)
NEW YORK, March 1. (United Press.)—On the same theory that a thing should not be called red because it looks red and because of the established unreliability of circumstantial evidence, it might be said that the New York boxing commission has nothing against Jack Dempsey.

The commission has not suspended, censured or gone officially on record as having it in for Dempsey, but the fact remains that the heavyweight champion cannot work in New York. Reasons comical and ridiculous were given by the commission for taking a stand against any bout in which Harry Wills, Jess Willard, Tom Gibbons, Battling Siki, Harry Greb or Bill Brennan would appear against Dempsey.

Georges Carpentier and Joe Beckett were not placed on the official embargo list, but when their names began to be mentioned, the commission would rule that they are too top heavy.

When the commission went so far as to let Jess Willard step over the barriers that they had erected in front of him, it is hard to see any reason for refusing the champion of the class to do a little fighting.

Another act of injustice is the persistence of the commission in refusing to lift the suspension of Johnny Wilson, the middleweight champion. If the commission cannot see him as a worthy title holder, perhaps the best thing to do would be to let him fight and let someone whip him. He can't beat anyone if he is as poor as everyone thinks he is.

Battling Siki got a nine months suspension for doing more than Jack Johnson did when he was forced to flee from the United States. After three months, the French Boxing Federation lifted his suspension.

Johnny Wilson has done nothing but evade some of the contenders for the title and if that is an offense deserving suspension, no champion would be working but Dempsey.

New York has seen many slick moves pulled off in ring circles, but the bell ringer came off when Floyd Johnson was eased out of his match with Tommy Gibbons. When the young town heavy was matched with Gibbons, everyone in New York told his manager when a mistake had been made and when his manager saw the light, he slipped him out of it.

It was put up to Gibbons that Willard would draw more with Johnson than he would with Gibbons, and as it was a "charity thing," Gibbons couldn't say a thing.

It would make an interesting story to tell why Gibbons and Willard, which would have been a fifty per-

MR. HARDING'S VACATION

ACCORDING to some Washington correspondents, President Harding, who had been planning a few days' respite from work when congress adjourns on March 4, has been persuaded by his physician to arrange for an extension of his vacation and may be gone a month. There can be no doubt of his need for such a rest or that he has richly earned it. Since last July he has not been five miles away from the District of Columbia.

Besides the long strain to which he has been subjected by the illness of Mrs. Harding, the president has been weakened by an attack of influenza, but he has remained constantly on the job and has been able to find little time even for his favorite exercise, golf. When he entered the white house, nearly two years ago, Mr. Harding was pronounced to be in "one hundred per cent condition," but for some months past he has not been up to the mark.

It is a long time since the country has had such an "approachable" president as Mr. Harding, and one of the penalties of such affability as he consistently displays is an unusual tax on time and energy imposed by persons asking favors or those who are merely professional horses delighting in the sound of their own voices giving advice to one in high position. Friends say that because of Mr. Harding's accessibility to callers during office hours he is compelled to labor until late at night in order to keep pace with the press of official business. The only way he can escape this condition is to absent himself from the white house and leave town.

There is never any danger that this country shall have a president who takes too much time for play. The fear is the other way, that the chief executive will neglect legitimate needs for rest and recreation while bearing the official burden. The country will approve Mr. Harding's plan for a real vacation and wish him the best of golfing weather.

LOOKING TOWARD THRONES

PERSONS returning from Germany report an apparent revival of activity on the part of professional monarchists if not of monarchist sentiment among the people, following the French occupation of the Ruhr. There are stories of the ex-crown prince having started from his refuge in Holland for Germany to confer with leaders of the monarchist group and then halting at the frontier. Correspondents say there is no question of the existence of a party that is prepared to put Hohenzollern back on the throne of Prussia.

In his recently published book Sir Basil Thomson, who was head of the British secret service during the war, expresses the opinion that several of the deposed European monarchs are likely to return. "The greater part of Bavaria is royalist at heart and any day within the next two years we may open our newspapers to find that Prince Supputich is king. Baden may not impossibly follow suit. Europe may even come round to the belief that a hereditary president, which is the real position in a limited monarchy, is cheaper than the American form of elected autocrat. Russia herself is awake to the fact that the red czar, whom she did not even elect, is a worse form of autocracy than any they knew under the white."

And yet a considerable stretch of the imagination is required to visualize the puppet kings—for that is all they could ever be again—back on their old thrones. The allies would have something to say about that, too. The moment the ex-crown prince left Holland he would be subject to their jurisdiction and technically would have to stand trial under the original provision of the Versailles treaty. He would scarcely be such a fool as to make the attempt to "come back," but his whole career stamps him as decidedly deficient in brain power and common sense.

Senator Poindexter has been confirmed as ambassador to Peru and Washington society probably breathes easier in the expectation that Mrs. Poindexter will accompany him.

New York=Day=By=Day

BY O. G. McINTIRE

NEW YORK, March 1.—There is speculation as to the future of the Police Gazette now that its editor and publisher Richard K. Fox has passed away. It was dubbed a "barber shop weekly"—a paper that everybody read and nobody took.

Fox, in his own country, was considered somewhat of a journalistic joke, the butt of cheap vaudeville gags. The truth is that he blazed a trail that was followed by the biggest publishers all over the world.

In England and on the continent, he was considered a rare genius and was entertained royally. In London and Paris they speak of him as we in America speak of the genius of Hearst, Bennett and Pulitzer.

Fox was the first to use pink paper, resplendent to the eyes. He never permitted in his paper the picture of a person known to be immoral. He was born in Ireland and was devoutly religious. His first editorial work was on a church journal.

He declared that advertisements had nothing to do with the reading matter. He accepted any and all kinds because, he said, they put money in his pocket. His lifelong battle for clean sports left an indelible imprint in American athletic life.

Famous men were close friends and confidants of the Police Gazette's editor. He knew intimately Lincoln, Grant, Cleveland and General U. S. Grant was one of his warmest friends. The last time he was in London he was given several dinners by the upper crust of British aristocracy.

I have seen him walking along Fifth avenue in the late afternoon—a powerful, rugged figure with keen sparkling eyes. No person looked at him with any show of recognition. He had been cruelly joked out of the public esteem that was his due. He left an estate worth $3,000,000.

One who has watched the facial cosmetic changes in New York is not much surprised at the plain yellow makeup with the lips brilliantly red that is now the vogue. They call it "The Pola Negri."

These new makeup ideas come from people of the stage. Last season the face was a lead gray with no touch of color. Dolores started that. And

Have you lifted anybody From the wayside dust today. As you went about your business In the old familiar way? Have you brightened anybody With the sunshine of your smile, As you trod your path of duty In the old familiar style?

Have you talked to anybody Through your sunny hours of life, Of the happiness of labor And the sweetness after strife, Have you tried to make them happy, And to blossom and to sing, As the days went by so gladly, With life's sweetness on their wing?

Have you heartened anybody With your old heart's joy today, As they struggled all around you In the conflict and the fray, Have you made the world seem better, As with gladness and with trust You have lifted someone's spirit From the shadows and the dust? —Exchange.
